

INT. BODY SHOP

Delores is seated across from Bernard. Bernard is looking over her data on his tablet. She is completely still.

BERNARD

Bring yourself back online Delores.

She comes alive. She is scared.

BERNARD

Delores, do you know where you are?

DELORES

Yes. I...I'm in a dream.

BERNARD

Before this, do you know what happened?

DELORES

My parents...They hurt them.

BERNARD

Limit your emotional affect, please.
What happened next?

Then they killed them. And then...I ran. Everyone I cared about is gone...And it hurts...So badly.

BERNARD

I can make that feeling go away if you'd like.

DELORES

Why would I want that? The pain, their loss...It's all I have left of them.

BERNARD

Delores, I want you to reset to your standard loop. Please initiate.

Now Delores speaks with a Southern accent. She is happy.

BERNARD

Delores, have you ever questioned the nature of your reality?

DELORES

No.

BERNARD

Tell me what you think of your world.

DELORES

Some people choose to see the ugliness in this world. The disarray. I choose to see the beauty.

BERNARD

What do you think of the guests?

DELORES

You mean the newcomers? I like to remember what my father taught me. That at one point or another, We were all new to this world. The newcomers are just looking for the same thing we are...A place to be free. To stake out our dreams, a place with unlimited possibilities.